

The background of the book cover is a photograph of a grand, ornate interior space. At the top, there is a large, arched decorative element with intricate floral and scrollwork carvings. Below this, the walls are a light, warm color. In the lower half of the image, two red escalators with silver handrails lead upwards. Two bright, circular lights are mounted on the wall above the escalators. In the distance, at the top of the escalators, a person wearing a purple hooded garment is visible, looking down. The overall atmosphere is one of a historical or classical setting.
